Letter from the President

Time is a created thing.
To say 'I don't have time,' is like saying,
'I don't want to.'

Lao Tzu (circa 500 B.C)

It has long been my concerted opinion that the single most valuable asset for the small business owner is their time. As a small business owner, you are tasked with every facet of your business process regardless of how many hours we are told exist in each day. Creating time is not only necessary for the success of a new small business it is absolutely critical to maintaining an appropriate life balance in all areas. The goal of the NASE has always been to help small business owners be more successful and perhaps the best way that can be accomplished is to help in creating more time. If there is one underlying common trait for all NASE member benefits is that they ALL are designed to save you time.

Easier tax preparation with the help of TurboTax, saving time and money with Office Depot, improving technology with Dell Computers, and getting quick answers to your specific questions via NASE's Ask the Experts, are only some of the ways your NASE benefits can help you create time. Time to find one more client, to solve one more problem, and to create one more job. We have always had only one goal which is to help small business owners be more successful, and I am hopeful that helping each of you create more time has contributed to that success.

It is true that your success has contributed to the unprecedented growth in new small businesses over the past several years. More than sixteen million new small businesses have begun their journey toward success in just the last two years and that trend shows no signs of waning. That growth has been consistent across all demographics and across all parts of the country. Your voice, your stories, your encouragement has added momentum to that growth and that voice of small business is greater than it has ever been before.

If you have started your journey in that time, congratulations on becoming part of the most powerful economic force in this country. We will continue to provide tools and expertise and support to help you achieve the goals you have set for yourself, your family, and for your business. We will continue to be your voice in Washington D.C. We will continue to dedicate our time to helping you create more time. We are dedicated to your success and dedicated to the voice of small business.

Keith Hall

of more than 370,000. According to an analysis by Axios, the Midwest and the Mountain West are emerging as small business hotspots, with Colorado, North Dakota and Iowa reporting the largest surges in small business growth.

This unprecedented growth in small businesses is also fueling positive economic news, including a record 14 million new jobs, historic low unemployment rate that we haven't seen in over 50 years, and signs that inflation and costs are starting to decline.

Combating the 1099-K Reporting Burden

A major victory came in the form of a one-year delay on the implementation of lowered 1099-K reporting thresholds. This change, championed by NASE, offered a reprieve from overly complex tax filing requirements for many self-employed individuals. NASE continues to push for permanent legislative solutions, such as raising the reporting threshold to a more manageable level. The NASE had actively endorsed bipartisan legislation in both chambers, to permanently resolve this issue.

House Bipartisan Paid Leave Working Group

The NASE joined the country's leading small business organizations, to support and highlight the work of the House Paid Leave Working Group, in testimony provided, the NASE stated, "America's small businesses employ nearly half the country's workers with self-employed business owners making up 81% of these businesses. They are a critical element to the economic vitality of communities across America. We know the ability to secure paid leave for selfemployed business owners or the ability to offer paid leave to employees is important for small businesses to compete with larger employers. This is especially true in a tight labor market where policies like paid leave help to attract the talent needed to grow a business."

Modernization of IRS

NASE also championed efforts to modernize the IRS, ensuring a more efficient and user-friendly experience for self-employed taxpayers.

Stability in Federal Funding Process

The NASE continued to call for Congress to avert a government shutdown, a move that could have severely impacted small businesses.

Education and Empowerment

NASE's commitment goes beyond advocacy efforts. Through our growth grants, dependent scholarships, and ever popular NASE minute videos, the NASE continues to provide a wealth of support and educational resources for self-employed individuals and micro-business owners.

Looking Ahead

2024 will be a huge opportunity for the NASE to continue its efforts to elevate and advocate the issues impacting the self-employed community. In addition, with 2024 being an election year, the NASE, will watch closely to learn from all the candidates running for office, across the country, their positions and proposals that would have impact for the self-employed and micro-business community. NASE remains a tireless advocate for the self-employed. The organization will continue to push for policies that foster a thriving environment for the selfemployed and micro-business community.

NASE Growth Grants

In 2023, NASE continued its Growth Grant program with the help of three generous sponsors: Dell Technologies, AARP and Payanywhere. We are very proud to have been able to award twenty eight $4,000 grants to support the growth of member's businesses. The Growth Grants helped businesses grow by providing extra capital for strategic marketing, continued education, new equipment purchases, mentorship programs, infrastructure projects, enhanced business technology, and made an impact on their local community. We would like to thank all of the 2023 applicants for their outstanding applications, congratulate the winners and recognize their achievements.
